CHANNELING THE DEAD?
FIGHTING A COP WAR

Welcome to Permanent Ink Five. Instead of only focusing on our hometowns, we've collected photos from our travels around the "dirty south" over the last three years.

You can find all of these images in full color on our webpage...
www.geocities.com/themovement314

Please note...
These are photos of publicly accessable artwork from the southeastern US.

We've grouped the photos by the state we assume each piece was created in. This does not imply that we know where the artists are from, or that we have any other identifying information on them. We are focusing on the southeast because it is finally getting recognition nationally and we want to make sure our favorites are not excluded. This is an incomplete collection... there's more to be seen and experienced. Look for it.
